Why Global Careers Are on the Rise

In today's interconnected economy, international careers are no longer optional—they're strategic. Whether it's consulting in London, tech in Silicon Valley, or finance in Dubai, global experience is seen as a differentiator for leadership roles.

Employers value professionals with international exposure because they bring:

- Cross-cultural adaptability.
- Expanded networks.
- Broader problem-solving perspectives.

Remote work is now common, but in-person global rotations, transfers, and relocations remain a fast track to senior leadership.

EXERCISE

Write down 3 countries where you'd like to work. Circle the one that aligns best with your career goals.

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____

Benefits of International Experience

Why should you consider moving abroad for work?

- Career Growth: International assignments are linked with faster promotions.
- Financial Benefits: Salaries in the US, UK, and Middle East often outpace home-country packages.
- Skill Development: Exposure to global markets strengthens leadership and problem-solving skills.
- Personal Growth: Living abroad builds resilience, adaptability, and cultural awareness.

REFLECTION

Beyond salary, which benefit excites you most about a global role?

_____

_____

_____

STEP 1

Choosing the Right Country for Your Career

Not every country suits every professional. You must balance opportunity, visa ease, and lifestyle.

- US: Great for tech, finance, consulting, but tough visas (H1B).
- UK: Strong for consulting and finance; post-study work visas available.
- Middle East (UAE, KSA, Qatar): High salaries, tax-free, booming in finance/consulting.
- Canada: Easier PR pathways, but salaries lower than US.
- Singapore: Asia hub for consulting, banking, supply chain.

EXERCISE

Research 1 target country and note its top hiring industries.

STEP 2

Understanding Visa Options & Requirements

Visa rules vary widely. Examples:

- US H1B: Lottery system, employer sponsorship.
- UK Skilled Worker Visa: Points-based; requires employer license.
- Canada PR: Express Entry based on age, education, experience.
- UAE: Employer sponsorship, often fast-tracked.

CHECK BEFORE YOU PLAN

Visa and immigration rules change often. Confirm the current requirements on the official government website for each country.

WORKSHEET

Write down visa eligibility for your top country.

Country and visa
Who is eligible
Sponsor needed?
Time and cost

STEP 3

Targeting Industries With Strong Global Hiring

Sectors that hire internationally:

- Consulting: MBB, Big 4, boutique firms.
- Finance: IB, VC, asset management.
- Tech: Product management, AI, data science.
- Healthcare: Biotech, pharma, med-tech.
- Energy/ESG: Renewables, sustainability roles.

EXERCISE

Match your skills to one industry that is actively hiring globally.

STEP 4

Identifying Transferable Skills for International Markets

Employers abroad value skills over location. Transferable skills include:

- Problem-solving & critical thinking.
- Communication in global teams.
- Data analytics & digital fluency.
- Leadership & stakeholder management.

EXERCISE

Write down 5 transferable skills from your current role.

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____
4. _____
5. _____

STEP 5

Resume & LinkedIn Localization

Your resume for India won't work in the US or UK. Adjust for:

- Format: 1 page in the US, 2 in Europe.
- Content: Remove photos, marital status.
- Language: Use country-specific terminology (e.g., "CPA" vs "Chartered Accountant").

EXERCISE

Take your current resume and identify 3 localization edits needed.

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____

STEP 6

Building a Global Network

Networking is even more important abroad. Many global roles are filled internally.

- Leverage alumni networks.
- Join LinkedIn groups by geography.
- Attend virtual meetups hosted by target firms.

WORKSHEET

Write the names of 5 professionals abroad you can reach out to this month.

Name	Where they work	How I know them / how I'll reach them

STEP 7

Preparing for Cross-Cultural Interviews

Interview styles differ by culture:

- US: Direct, numbers-driven, confidence matters.
- UK: Polite, structured, cultural fit tested.
- Middle East: Relationship-focused, emphasis on trust.
- Asia: Hierarchy-sensitive, humility respected.

EXERCISE

Research 1 interview difference in your target country and practice.

STEP 8

Negotiating Global Compensation Packages

Global salaries often sound high, but cost of living, taxes, and relocation costs matter.

- Always ask: "What's the net take-home?"
- Negotiate housing, relocation, visa fees.
- Check if healthcare is included.

WORKSHEET

Compare gross vs net salary for 1 target country.

	Amount
Gross salary
Income tax and social charges
Housing
Healthcare
Other living costs
Net, after the above

EXAMPLE

Consulting Role in the UK

An illustrative example. Names and details are representative, not real clients.

Rohit, a consultant in India, aimed for London. He rewrote his resume to UK standards, reached out to alumni there and secured interviews. He negotiated relocation support and a signing bonus, and moved within 6 months.

> LESSON
> Localization + networking = success.

EXAMPLE

Finance Role in the Middle East

An illustrative example. Names and details are representative, not real clients.

Aditi, an Indian CA, applied for Dubai-based IB firms. She emphasized transferable skills, built connections on LinkedIn, and used her CFA Level I certification to stand out. She landed an associate role with a tax-free salary well above her pay in India.

> LESSON
> Certifications + networking accelerate Middle East pivots.

Common Mistakes and Your 90-Day Plan

- ✕ Applying without localization.
- ✕ Ignoring visa feasibility.
- ✕ Not building a global network early.

Your 90-day plan

When	Focus	My actions
Days 1–30	Research + Resume/LinkedIn localization.
Days 31–60	Build network + apply selectively.
Days 61–90	Prep for interviews + negotiate package.
